IT PROJEKTMANAGER MIT SCHWERPUNKT CLOUD SERVICES (M/W/D)

Vienna, Klagenfurt, Graz, Karlsruhe, Remote | full time

Are you a motivated and communicative organizational talent who is interested in new technologies and has a distinct sense for quality? Then we are a great match!

#PROFILE

With our cloud management platform "Anexia Engine," we offer our customers various self-administration cloud services. Starting with basic services such as domains and DNS, all the way through to virtual servers and big data environment solutions.As Project Manager, your tasks will include coordinating and implementing development projects for our cloud management platform as well as the services in the background. The focus is placed on managing projects for integrating SW products into the overall IT system architecture. As part of a team, you will develop digital concepts, coordinate the implementation, manage the launch, and bear the responsibility for the quality of the final result. You act as an interface between different departments (Platform Solutions, System Operations, Network Operations) and are responsible for tending to the concept (in close consultation with our software developers and engineers), alignment, and coordination. In performing your work, you always keep the project goal, the timeline, and the budget in mind. Tasks such as reporting and resource planning also fall within your area of responsibility.
